“Let my prayer come into your presence. Incline your ear to my cry for help, O Lord.” (Cf. Ps 88:3)

Message from Father Hansen . . .

On October 21st of this year, Bishop Johnston wrote to the priests, “We are aware of Pope Francis’ recent comments on same-sex civil unions. Since the comments were in the context of a documentary and not in the form of expressing an official teaching of the Catholic Church, we will await an official response and clarification from the Vatican before offering further comment from the diocese.” Later Bishop Johnston sent the priests a copy of a memorandum from the General Secretary of the USCCB (Conference of Bishops in USA). In the memorandum, the Nuncio of the Holy Father, His Excellency Archbishop Christophe Pierre, shared that the Holy Father (Pope Francis) “directed that these observations be offered in order to permit an adequate understanding of his words.”

The brief letter from the papal nuncio indicates that the statements of Pope Francis had been edited and decontextualized. The letter further clarifies that the Holy Father did not intend to suggest a change in the Church’s constant teaching on the nature of marriage. Archbishop Pierre wrote “More than a year ago, in the course of an interview, Pope Francis responded to two distinct questions at different moments that, in the said documentary (Francesco), were edited and published as a single response without the necessary context, which has resulted in confusion.” Two points referring to the quotes that were made by the Nuncio are, “The Holy Father, first and foremost, referred in a pastoral manner to the need, within the family, for a son or daughter with a homosexual orientation to never be discriminated against.”

The second point was that “A subsequent question during that interview pertained rather to a local law of ten years ago...” and “the opposition of the then Archbishop of Buenos Aires towards it” (the local law). The Nuncio continued, “During a 2014 interview, the Holy Father expressed himself as follows: ‘Marriage is between a man and a woman. Secular States want to justify civil unions in order to regularize the various situations of cohabitation, driven by the necessity to regularize economic matters between persons, such as ensuring health care, for example. This relates to various forms of cohabitation agreement, which I would not be able to list. The different situations must be examined and evaluated, according to their circumstances.’” The Nuncio himself then continued, “It is therefore clear that Pope Francis was referring to particular State provisions, and not certainly to the doctrine of the Church, which has been reiterated on numerous occasions over the years.”

Sincerely,

~ Fr. Steve Hansen
