"The Lord upholds my life." (Ps 54)

Father Hansen's message . . . I write you this week from home, inside the Cathedral. St. Mary's, just a mile way, is also home. But of all places to be, with our Lord in the Tabernacle, home will be to be with Him in heaven, but we're always at home with Him in the Tabernacle on earth, too. I conclude my little series on the five points of prayer with Mental Prayer. I'll continue with the other norms I mentioned earlier this month from Kenya in a future article.

St. Teresa of Avila, Carmelite Nun and Doctor of the Church, coined the title "mental prayer." Some might call it meditation, others lectio divina. I've often mentioned this in homilies, so please forgive me for repeating, but one of the best ways to do mental prayer, in my opinion (only my opinion, there are as many ways to pray as there are people), is to take something you underlined or highlight in spiritual reading (last week's topic) and talk to God about it. Maybe incorporate your worries, joys, sorrows, noble ambitions... into it. Why did this jump off the page for me in my reading, Lord? Why is this bothering me? Is this a good idea? Then, take a fixed amount of time (starting with 3-5 minutes a day is a good place to start), and listen. Maybe reread your underlined words a second time. You can build up to even 10 minutes on just one sentence(s) that you underlined, just listening. St. Josemaria, who was very fond of St. Teresa, said mental prayer can look like this (number 91 in The Way):
You write: 'To pray is to talk with God. But about what?' About what? About Him, about yourself: joys, sorrows, successes and failures, noble ambitions, daily worries, weaknesses! And acts of thanksgiving and petitions: and Love and reparation. In a word: to get to know him and to get to know yourself: 'to get acquainted!'

Complementing spiritual reading of a book and the New Testament and mental prayer, are the morning offering (don't forget to begin your day offering it all to God) and examination of conscience (don't forget to take inventory of your soul like you do your checking account)! I hope these five points have poked at you somewhere, challenged you. Just writing them challenges me to ask for fortitude!
It's good to be home! Thank you for your prayers for my workshop and travel!

Please note: Father Hansen will be on the radio next Friday, Sept. 24, from 4-6 pm as part of the Catholic Radio Fall Pledge Drive. Please tune in to listen to Father Hansen on 106.7 FM or online at <https://catholicradionetwork.com/listen/listen-live>
